

Her POV

Do you believe in destiny? fate? providence? or all of sorts. I actually didn't believe in those until I met him, the one who will stir and will turn my world upside down. I am living in a world of bliss; I am always surrounded by people and the world treats me like a princess. I don't really mind all the publicity since I am a popular celebrity in my own right.

Though I can really say that I have friends, but sometimes I can feel that there is something lacking, I can't complain right? Everything was already perfect until...Our Meeting was unexpected I just froze to death when I accidentally bumped into you and stained your uniform from the yakisoba bread that I Just bought.

"She just bumps Tsuki" murmured by a student,

" She just bumps Tsuki " another whisper

"God... I just bump Tsuki" as I shiver with fear while looking at him...

He just stood there and used his signature death glare with me
Is he angry? Oh god of ALL the entire person!! Why Tsuki... Come on feet move!!!!!! As I silently yell to my body to move! My knees start to freeze as he puts his hands on my shoulder...

"Next time be careful" he said with his cold gruff voice while looking Straight into my eyes...
I can't help but to notice his Deep Mojave eyes that match well with his messy black hair and pale complexion... he also has remarkably good looks.

"I- I am so sorry!!! " I yelled as I shakingly bow down and run away

Then he just left silently standing there, My heart was about to explode! as I let out a loud sigh
That was closed!!! I thought I was going to die!!! I said to myself as I am trying to get my knee's working that won't move...

Tsuki Kitagawa, the most UNWANTED student of our School... for some reason all of the students are really afraid of him, I can't blame them, He is scary as hell! Still, I can hear little gossip from the students who saw the incident

I was sitting alone at the school cafeteria when Lyra and Ruku approached me, they are one of a few friends that I would say is close to me. "Shoko, I heard that you accidentally bumped Tsuki, are you alright? a worried Lyra said " Y-yes... I am fine... don't worry ""You are so lucky that Tsuki didn't hurt you " said Ruku while eating his sandwich

"Yeah... he is so scary...I don't understand why the school let him stay here," said Lyra

"But for me the way I see it... he doesn't look so bad at all" I said

Lyra and Ruku looked at each other, and they both laugh

"Are you serious???" Lyra said with disbelief

Then Ruku notices Tsuki in the cafeteria sitting alone "Speaking of the devil" he mumbles "He is here..." pointing to Tsuki

"God... he is really there..." Lyra gasp

I didn't realize that I was looking at him that long... He wears an inner red shirt inside his white school long sleeve uniform. He also had a band aid on his right cheek, and He has the most mysterious eyes I had ever seen.

He looks like a total loner than a delinquent guy... I Thought to myself.

"Hey... stop staring at him..." Lyra whispered

"W-what??" I blushed, "Tell me Shoko... you like him?" asked Ruku, who really seemed to be amused.

"Hell no!!!" Flustered by Ruku's comment

"Then why did you keep on looking at him? He is going to melt you know..." Ruku said jokingly

"Yeah... and for the record Tsuki is not the type of guy you want to have a relationship with..." Lyra said

"Why is that?" I said

"Because he is a bad person Shoko, literally EVIL " Ruku said

"Based on what I've heard, Tsuki was part of a yakuza gang when he was in middle school," Lyra said while looking at me and Ruku.

"Really...? Y-yakuza?? in middle school?? " I said with disbelief

"Yeah... but in those 2 accounts of homicide but he was proven not guilty because of lack of evidence and then he was sentenced to juvenile center for 2 years...", said Lyra

"I didn't know... well we only met the guy last year, when he was accused that he almost kills Mr. Juno and got suspended for a whole Semester"

"Well... it's not all, I even heard from my friend and that friend who was his classmate in math, told me... that he... " Ruku look around carefully "Killed his best friend" Ruku whispered

"What!!! that's not true, who could ever do that ?? " I reacted

"Will you keep your voice down?" Lyra hushed me.

"Well, it's true..." Ruku took a bite of his sandwich

"We should be careful when he is around, many people said he had ears from hell " Ruku whispered

"Yeah, if we want to had a peaceful life, we had to avoid people like Tsuki " Letty said

"O-ok" as I agree

I never imagined that I would meet a person like him...But I didn't know he looked so sad... While me and my friends were chatting about the infamous Tsuki Kitagawa.

Then an unexpected announcement went on: Attention dear students! We had a special Announcement to make. Our school Princess Shoko Minami won another spectacular award for the best young model award this year. Please give her applause for bringing another honor to our dear school.

"Wow! Congratulations, Shoko!" Said Lyra,

Everybody was clapping their hand for another achievement and yet I was not really that happy. I take a look at where Tsuki was sitting and when I look around he's gone...Where could he have gone? I don't know but he is quite intriguing...What am I thinking?? as I said to myself, Then Letty snapped her fingers

"Hey... are you listening??" Lyra said, "Huh? Yeah... Thank you " I smiled.

His POV

My name is Tsuki Kitagawa, I am 17 and I am living with my aunt who took me in after my mom died, and for my father I don't have any Idea where is he, I only know that he is part of a syndicate and went into hiding, when my mother was alive, she always points out that my father and I really looked alike, I don't want that... ever since from elementary until middle school trouble always has seemed to find me.

I really don't want to fight but I have no choice, growing up at an all-boys middle school it like a battlefield to me, every day I keep fighting until I win and win but sooner, I realize that everyone is already scared at me. and I was scared as well at myself I have friends, I tried too...

Memories in Middle school

" s-sorry ... it's not that we don't like to hang out with you, but it's just we don't like trouble" as they leave. I heard the other person saying that,

" hehe.. who do you think he is? we won't like a guy like him in our group"

" What a psycho... hahaha"

I never wanted this life, I only wanted to be accepted but the more I try, the more desperate I become turning things out of hand, maybe it's better this way... to be alone... but suddenly there's you, a shining star who is basically a complete opposite of me.

For me you're an alien, who is literally living in a different world but why am I looking at you? you crept slowly into my life and stirred my world upside down. and now I will only look at you. our first unexpected meeting was destined.

She looked at me nervously

Shoko Minami, the school Idol, bumps me... she is looking at me... Lucky...

I don't know if that rumor is really correct, she really is cute when you look at her closely, her long strawberry blond hair perfectly matches her bright green eyes, this is the first time I saw her face up close. I looked at her and I wanted to say it's fine but, I can hear the student whispering

"She bumped Tsuki!"

"She's dead meat" "Good luck to her"

I looked at her, she is still looking at me nervously and looks like she is about to cry. I pat her at her shoulder to assure her that I was ok... and she doesn't need to worry about it.

"Next time be careful" as I tried to reassure her that it's ok, and she apologized to me nervously, I can see that she is shaking in fear. She apologized and ran away, I expected that.

As I walked, I let out a sigh. Every time I tried to make a conversation, they would cower with fear, I am really hopeless. During Our Lunch Break, I decided to go to our cafeteria, and I saw her again. she is with her friends... she is way too out of my league, are we really living on the same planet? She shines so bright, everybody liked her since she is popular and also very talented and pretty. It must be really nice that you are surrounded by friends... I want a friend too... as I mumbled, then the school announced that Shoko won another award... everybody is cheering for her. I can't help myself but to feel pity for myself so instead I did, what I did best... silently disappear

Her POV

I was heading home, it was a rainy afternoon, and I always made sure that I would always bring my umbrella and then I saw him again. He was sitting with his blue umbrella and looking at a poor kitten that was left alone in a box, he was staring at it intensely, and the poor kitten was hissing at him. He had a box of milk next to him, I think he was just trying to feed the kitten. The more I watched him, the more I wanted to know more about him. He doesn't seem like a bad person as the rumor says. So I put my courage up and speak to him.

"Why not try to pet him, so that he will not be scared" I smiled

He looked my way and was dumbfounded, but he immediately looked away, and I approached him and sat beside him.

"Does he have a name?" I asked, "yes, his name is fuzzy... because he has a fuzzy paw"

"Hi, Mr. Fuzzy! my name is Shoko and I hope we can be friends " as I pat the kitten. He looks at me as I pat the kitten.

" Now you try" I said to him

He shakingly pat the kitten head and he smiled gently and I can't help but to looked at him, how can be a gentle guy can be Evil?? I think there is some sort of mistake. He looked at me and turned his eyes away.

His POV

I went to see Fuzzy again, he was an abandoned kitten that I usually visits, I felt sorry for him and I really wanted to take him, but my aunt has serious cat allergies, that's why every afternoon I always bring him milk, but he hates me as well. he was hissing at me every time he sees me, I tried to hold him but he always claws at me, and today is still no difference.

But a soft voice spoke to me, and as I turned around I saw Shoko standing behind me . She was as beautiful as ever. I was embarrassed to look at her so I turned around immediately as I felt a sudden gush of warmth around my cheek. And she did the unexpected. She sat beside me, I could hear the sound of my own heart beat and she asked me what's the name of the kitten. I answered her as I secretly looked at her as she patted the kitten's head. She told me to try patting Fuzzy's head. At first I was reluctant but I still did, It was the first time that I successfully did it. I drew a little smile and I was about to thank her but she was looking at me, our eyes met and I slowly turned away my gaze.

"By the way, your name is Tsuki right?"

"yes"

" Tsuki.. I am sorry about earlier.. I didn't mean to ran away"

"I-it's ok.. I- I am used that people ran away from me " he embarrassedly told Shoko as he scratches his head

"Well.. still I am sorry " Shoko smiled

" Is Fuzzy your cat?"

" N-no.. I can't take him home, since my aunt has a bad cat allergy"

" well.. If you want I can take , fuzzy with me since I am living alone "

'R-really? That would help Fuzzy alot "

" In exchange, can we become friends? " Shoko smile

Tsuki's eyes widened and blushed " I- I can't do... I well.. I.." as he was flustered by Shoko's offer of friendship.

" I think.. I can't be your friend.. Since your an incredible person and I would not like people talking bad about you "

" I insist! I wanted to be your friend and I don't care what people think, because tsuki is a nice person"

Shoko's determined to be friends with Tsuki, and not knowing that she actually makes him very happy .

He smiles at shoko and nod

" ok.. We can be friends"

Shoko was glad and happy that Tsuki accepted her as a friend . Thus it is the start of a good friendship.

